Location

Cala Mendia (also known as Cala Mandia) is a quiet resort town on the east coast of Mallorca in the municipality of Manacor, about 3 km southwest of Porto Cristo. The town is best known for its picturesque, sheltered swimming cove with fine white sand and crystal-clear, turquoise water.

The cove is framed by low rocky cliffs covered with pine trees and Mediterranean vegetation. The gently sloping sandy beach is particularly well-suited for families with children as well as for swimmers who appreciate calm waters and a relaxed atmosphere. During the summer season, lifeguards, lounge chair and umbrella rentals, and restroom facilities ensure a comfortable beach experience.

The town itself consists mainly of vacation homes, apartments, hotels, and small restaurants. Shops for daily necessities, as well as cafés and bars, are located in the immediate vicinity of the beach. Despite its tourist infrastructure, Cala Mendia has retained a comparatively quiet and family-friendly character.

The equally popular coves of Cala Anguila and Cala Romàntica (S'Estany d'en Mas) are located right next door and are partially connected by short walking paths. The nearby town of Porto Cristo, with its marina, numerous restaurants, and the famous Dragon Caves (Cuevas del Drach), offers additional opportunities for excursions and leisure activities.

Overall, Cala Mendia is an ideal destination for those seeking relaxation, families, and beachgoers who want to enjoy one of the most beautiful bays on Mallorca's east coast in a peaceful setting.

But anyone looking to live permanently in Mallorca and seeking a renowned international school for their children should also take note: The Rafael Nadal International School is only about 13 km away—practically just a stone's throw away. This makes the property not only suitable as a vacation home but also an excellent choice for residents or part-time residents with school-age children who value a first-class international education.
